JAPAN'S FUTURE POLICY

THE new Japanese Cabinet held its first meeting on Saturday at the Imperial Palace in Tokyo, where the Emperor personally installed its members in their offices, says the Japanese News Agency. A draft statement of policy by General Kuniaki Koiso, the new Prime Minister, was approved.

A Tokyo dispatch to the German News Agency said that the Government changes were the direct result of the fall of Saipan, and that "in the awareness that the threat to Japan proper had become acute, changes had to be made in the leading Imperial posts."

General Kuniaki Koiso, outlining the policy of his Cabinet yesterday, said that Japan's war policy would not undergo any basic change, and that Japan would further strengthen the existing ties with Germany "in positive pursuit of the common war objective."

"Japan," he said, "will maintain friendly relations with the Soviet Union, and exert her best efforts in order to avoid unnecessary provocations. Efforts will also be made towards befriending neutral countries in order that they may offer more positive co-operation to Japan."

Of domestic policy, General Koiso said that the fighting spirit would be "bolstered" and industrial production increased. He also promised that all efforts would be made to guarantee necessary supplies for civilians.

Tokyo newspapers, said the Agency, welcome the formation of the new Cabinet as "a sign that zero hour fo. a mighty blow on the enemy draws near."—(Reuter.)

American Progress On Guam Island

American troops are stated to be making substantial progress in both the northern and southern sectors of Guam Island, stepping-stone to the Philippines. Admiral Nimitz reported early yesterday the capture of Mount Alifan, in the south. The roads from Agana to Piti, in the north, are in Allied hands, and the town of Piti has been captured.

Earlier Berlin, quoting a Tokyo report, forecast another American landing, this time on the Island of Tinian, immediately south of the recently recaptured Saipan, in the Marianas. The island is under "permanent" bombardment both from warships and aircraft, said the report.

Allied bombers have again attacked the Japanese air base island south-west of Guam, dropping 37 tons of bombs, and destroying eight out of twenty intercepting Zeros. American casualties in three days' fighting on Guam now total 1,958—348 killed, 1,500 wounded, and 110 missing.—(Reuter.)

Solving the World's Economic Evils

Mr. Henry Morgenthau, United States Secretary of the Treasury, announced, at the conclusion of the world money talks at Bretton Woods yesterday, that the Soviet Government has agreed to subscribe, not 900 million dollars, as previously announced, but 1,200 million (£300 m.), to the World Bank.

At the final plenary session Mr. Morgenthau announced that the Conference had successfully completed the task before it. He said: "We came here to work out methods which would do away with the economic evils, the competitive currency devaluation, and destructive impediments to trade which preceded the present war. We have succeeded in that effort."

Russians Fighting In Lublin Streets

RUSSIAN TROOPS OF THE THIRD BALTIC FRONT HAVE CAPTURED PSKOV, MARSHAL STALIN ANNOUNCED LAST NIGHT IN AN ORDER OF THE DAY TO COL.-GENERAL MASLENNIKOV.

According to the Soviet communiqué, the river San has been reached, the Red Army is only 4 miles N.E. of Brest-Litovsk and 11 miles S.E. of Bialystok. Fighting is raging in the streets of Lublin, which is only 25 miles from the river Vistula and the last major buttress covering the southern approaches to Warsaw.

The communiqué also stated:—"The liquidation of the Germans in the Rawa-Russkaya area has been completed 30,000 Germans were killed and 15,000 taken prisoners."

Duncan Hooper, Reuter's Special Correspondent in Moscow, cables that on an 800-mile front more than a million Germans are being forced back step by step, and in the whirlpool of isolated battles Brest-Litovsk and Lvov have become the twin linchpins of the crumbling German defences. Lvov, in the outskirts of which Soviet and German tanks are now at grips, is being attacked from all directions, while Brest-Litovsk is already all but encircled.

One spearhead pointing at the south-eastern corner of the Reich is reported 65 miles past Lvov, and has reached the town of Yaroslav on the upper stretch of the River San.

German reports admit fighting on the city boundary and in the eastern fringe of the town.

The Red Army's main summer offensive, which opened in White Russia and has now spread to include seven active fronts, is just one month old.

In that month Pravda estimates German losses at a quarter of the German forces concentrated on the Soviet-German front, states Reuter's correspondent.

"The next 72 hours should see the Red Army within striking distance of Warsaw," Reuter's correspondent cables.

The most sensational advances, he continues, are going on in the south, on Marshal Manstein's old front, believed now to be under the command of Field-Marshal Model.

IN LITHUANIA

In Lithuania, General Bagramyan's mobile forces are reaching out towards the Siauliai-Tilsit highway in a new threat to East Prussia.

Further south, Marshal Rokossovsky's advance is less than 80 miles from Warsaw.

A supplement to yesterday's German High Command communique, broadcast last night, stated: "Having met with stiff resistance at Lublin, the enemy has diverted some of his armoured and motorised forces to an outflanking move north-west past the city. Heavy fighting is going on here now.

"Between Dvinsk and Lake Peipus strong Soviet infantry and tank forces were in the main repelled. Violent fighting still continues in two breaches.

"The ruins of Ostrov and Pskov were evacuated."

According to the Soviet communiqué, Dvinsk is cut off from north and south.

The Soviet communiqué reported also the capture of the following places:—Over 100 in the Pskov direction, 80 north-west and west of Sebezh, including a district centre of the Latvian Republic; 150 in the Dvinsk sector, including three railway stations; 200 north-west and south of Ponevezh, 70 in the Bialystok sector; 60 in the Brest-Litovsk direction; 300 west of Chelm; 80 west and south-west of V.-Volynsk; 250 west of R.-Russkaya, and 150 west and south-west of Tarnapol.

The Rezekue-Rezhitsa-Dvinsk railway was cut.

The communiqué stated also that S.W. of Brody, one of the prisoners taken, was the Commander of the 361st German Infantry Division, Major-General Idemann. General Beutler was killed.

68 tanks and 3,500 lorries were captured.

Saturday night's communiqué reported the capture of Krinki, in the Bialystok region, and the Commander of the 110th German Infantry Division, Lieut.-General Kurovsky, who surrendered.

Two Orders of the Day

MARSHAL STALIN announced two Orders of the Day on Saturday—one reporting the fall of Ponevezh, communications centre covering the main roads from the Baltic into East Prussia; the other the capture of Chelm, 20 miles west of the Bug, and first town to fall on the other side of the 1941 Soviet-Polish border.

Poisoning Blamed on Meat

THE findings of a noted bacteriologist are awaited in the case of the food poisoning of over twenty valuable dogs—gundogs and dachshunds—the property of the well-known breeders and exhibitors at Irish shows, the Misses Peggy Kelly and Seton Buckley.

As already suggested, the organism that caused the infection probably will be found in the big Salmonelle group, which includes bacillus aertrycke, the microbe that caused the food poisoning of over twenty people in Dublin.

BREEDER'S VIEWS

Miss Kelly told an Irish Times reporter that some of the dogs she had lost already had been sold, and were about to be shipped to England. The older dogs that contracted the disease survived, the mortality being among the puppies.

"It might have been worse," she said. "Luckily, however, my kennels are well stocked, and I probably will be able to replace my losses."

She added that this was the first time a poison microbe had been isolated from the blood-stream of a dog. She believed that the poisoning was caused by meat.

Recorded cases of food poisoning among dogs occurred in Norway in 1937, and in Sweden in 1938.

Another suspected case of food poisoning in Dublin—a woman from Rathgar—was taken to Clonskeagh Fever Hospital last night.

Catholic Communists Condemned by Pope

The Pope yesterday condemned the Italian Catholic Communist movement, a small but active group which, since the Allies' arrival in Rome, has been publishing a weekly called Workers' Voice.

"We must complain that some of our sons, although calling themselves Catholics, follow theories which have been formally condemned," His Holiness declared.

Sharp criticism of sentence of 18 months' imprisonment pronounced on Rosario Bentivegna—a Communist partisan found guilty of killing Lieut. Giorgio Barbarisi, a few hours after the Allied entry into Rome — was voiced by the Communist newspaper Unita yesterday. The paper says that it is unfortunate that the Allies should have sought to make disciplinary example of one of Italy's outstanding heroes.

The Court declared that Bentivegna, who has the right to appeal to the Allied Military Government in Rome, showed "culpable excess in the exercise of legitimate defence." He shot Barbarisi in an altercation which arose when the latter tore down Communist placards near the Unita offices.—(Reuter.)

Railways In France Bombed

THUNDERBOLT and Lightning fighter-bombers of the 9th Air Force on Saturday evening returned to action with widespread attacks on railway targets in France, some of them penetrating as far south as Poitiers. By midnight the fighter-bombers had destroyed 43 railroad cars, probably destroyed 20 more and damaged 120; destroyed three locomotives and cut tracks in 19 places, according to a U.S. announcement.

Lightnings dropped 1,000-lb. bombs on railway yards at Chatellerault, north of Poitiers, damaging the main inter-section. North-west of Poitiers, the Lightnings cut a main railroad line in two places. Lightnings bombed and strafed an airfield near Tours. Near Cholet, in south-western France, one span of a six-span railway bridge was destroyed by Lightnings. Further south, Thunderbolts attacked freight trains near Dreux, Evreux, Mortagne and Breteuil, and Lightnings bombed and strafed trains, motor transport and railway tracks in the Chartres region.

The 9th Troop Carrier Command the same day flew 125 supply and air evacuation operations.

Three Ninth Air Force fighters are missing from the day's operations, during which not a single German aircraft was encountered.

Flying Fortresses and Liberators of the 8th Air Force attacked German aerodromes in the Paris area late yesterday, American Headquarters stated last night. Bombing was done through cloud by means of instruments, and results were unobserved.

SHUTTLE RAID

Strong forces of heavy bombers on Saturday, said an announcement from Mediterranean Allied Headquarters yesterday struck at an oil refinery at Ploesti and other military objectives in Rumania. "In Northern Italy, and in the battle area, tactical aircraft attacked enemy communications and other targets, while other aircraft struck at objectives in Yugoslavia. Early reports show that in those operations five enemy aircraft were destroyed and 28 of ours are missing. Six aircraft are missing from night operations on July 21-22."

It was also announced by the Eastern Command of the U.S. Strategic Air Forces in Europe that the 15th Air Force, having bombed German aerodrome at Bazau and Zilistea, in Rumania, afterwards landed at American bases in the Soviet Union. They reported the destruction of 41 aircraft on the ground, the setting fire to fuel dumps, the shooting up of six locomotives, two trucks and three railway cars; also the destruction of 15 aircraft in the air. Five Allied aircraft are missing.

FLYING BOMBS

More flying bombs came over southern England in daylight yesterday, after continued activity throughout the night over the southern counties, including the London area. Damage and casualties were caused. R.A.F. fighters and a.a. batteries shot down several raiders after a night of notable successes, the Press Association stated, a large proportion of the robot planes being destroyed.

Flying bomb activity over one area of southern England has been carried on for a long period. The Germans may be using more bases, including a number of new ones. Probably one or two are in Belgium.

Yesterday morning Lancasters of R.A.F. Bomber Command, with fighter cover, attacked flying bomb installations in Northern France. The bombing was concentrated, the British Air Ministry News Service stated.

Ireland's Task In Post-War World

The present Government faced a task ever more formidable than that which it had encountered in 1939 when the present war began, said Mr. Erskine H. Childers, T.D., Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Local Government and Public Health, speaking at Edgeworthstown, Co. Longford, yesterday.

Ireland, like other small countries, he said, was so utterly dependent on world influences that every decision taken by the Government might effect the history of the nation for the next century. In many cases those decisions would be hard to make, because they would be based on facts, the value of which would alter as time went on.

The Government believed that after developing fully the country's resources the nation should play the fullest part in international affairs.

The character of whatever peace arrangements emerged would well depend on the degree to which small nations, like Ireland, unaffected by the bitterness and horrors of war, would be allowed to express opinions and judgments on matters of international concern, and would be allowed to play a full part in the reconstruction of Europe.

Major Churchill in Plane Crash

Major Randolph Churchill and Captain Evelyn Waugh are among the survivors of an air crash in Yugo-Slavia, states Philip Jordan, for Combined Press.

A transport plane in which they were travelling, and in which there were three Russian officers, the Political Commissar for the Yugo-Slav Headquarters and Jordan himself crashed from 400 feet and burst into flames.

Making Gaelic a Living Tongue

The necessity for the older people putting themselves in the position of the teachers and assisting Gaelic students by speaking Irish whenever possible was stressed by An Taoiseach (Mr. de Valera) when he opened the new Irish College established by Gaedhealachas Teoranta at Garryvoe, Co. Cork, on Saturday.

Speaking entirely in Irish, An Taoiseach, paying tribute to the college's authorities for its enterprise, said he hoped that much good would be derived from it. For many years the work of the Gaelic colleges had been most efficient. That some of these colleges had been closed was a matter of deep regret, but he hoped they would be re-established both in the Fior-Gaeltacht and in the Breac-Gaeltacht.

General R. Mulcahy, T.D., said that it was up to the young people to rouse again the spirit of the older people. A little fanning would soon re-kindle their fire, and, unless it were re-kindled, he did not think that the Irish language could live.

The new college was solemnly blessed by the Rev. D. O'Leary, P.P., Ladysbridge, representing the Most Rev. Dr. Roche, Bishop of Cloyne, who wrote regretting his inability to attend.

Body of Missing Man Found

The body of William Ridgeway, Malahide, Co. Dublin, who had been missing from his home for nine days, was found on Saturday by Mr. Francis McCann under the railway arches at the Back Strand, Malahide, about 1¼ miles from where the deceased man's bicycle was discovered on July 13th. The trouser legs of the deceased man were rolled up, as if he had been wading.

Ridgeway, who leaves a wife and four children, was a hairdresser and [illegible] band conductor.

GERMAN ARMY LOYALTY PLEDGE

GERMAN radio said last night: "On receiving the news of the attempt on Hitler's life, officers on the Eastern front had a roll-call of the units under their command to reaffirm the loyalty of the troops towards the Fuehrer."

Colonel-General Guderian, the new German Chief of Staff, yesterday, pledged the German Army's loyalty to Hitler. He gave the pledge in a broadcast following the reading of the Fuehrer's Order of the Day to the Army.

General Guderian said, according to the German News Agency:—

LOST COURAGE

"A few officers, some of them on the retired list, had lost courage, and, out of cowardice and weakness, preferred the road of disgrace to the only road open to an honest soldier—the road of duty and honour.

"The Army has purged itself and cut out the dishonest elements. On all fighting fronts and in the homeland fervent work and sacrifices for victory are continued. The people and Army stand closely united behind the Fuehrer.

"The enemy is mistaken if he believes he can reckon with a split in his favour among the generals of the Army. I guarantee the Fuehrer and the German people the unity of the generals, of the officers, corps and men of the Army in the single aim of fighting for, and achieving, victory under the motto created by the venerable Field-Marshal von Hindenburg—Loyalty is the essence of honour.

"Long live Germany. Long live our Fuehrer, Adolf Hitler. And now nation to arms!"

"BRITISH MINE"

Dr. Robert Ley, German Labour Front Leader, speaking on Saturday over the German radio, said:

"A mine of the heaviest type, imported from Britain, was used in the attempt to kill the Fuehrer."

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung stated: "Himmler will, no doubt, mobilise the German home front for the war even more ruthlessly than before."

The Berliner Lokalanzeiger said: "The most important result must be a radical overhaul of the entire war machine in the homeland. It can only lead to an even stronger concentration of German working and fighting strength. A mobilisation of all as yet untapped reserves must be announced."

Martin Hallensleben, the chief military correspondent of the German News Agency, said that Himmler's appointment "signifies that the technical conversion of the whole German war machine, which is now under way and is concerned with the production of new types of weapons, will be as much for the benefit of the soldier in our third and fourth lines of defence as in the first line. We may rest assured that he will solve this problem in the shortest possible time."—(Reuter.)

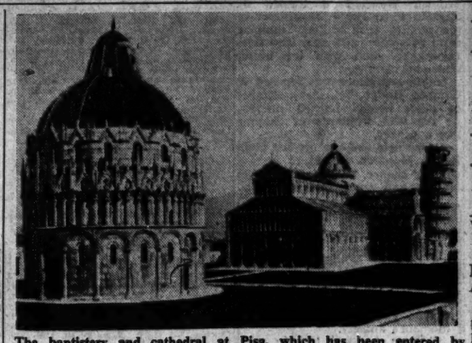

The German News Agency says that Signor Mussolini completed a five-day inspection tour of Italian divisions training in Germany when he visited Herr Hitler at his H.Q. Marshal Goering and Herr von Ribbentrop, Marshal Keitel, Marshal Graziani, and Count Mazzolini (Under Secretary of State of Mussolini's Foreign Office) were present.

The Agency adds that the Fuehrer and the Duce examined the present situation and discussed the position of Italian prisoners of war.

The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Aftonbladet described a photograph in the German soldiers' paper Front und Heimat of Hitler and Mussolini inspecting the room where the assassination attempt was made. The room, which was fairly large, was full of splinters, broken glass and other debris. The windows and doors had been forced in, the ceiling ripped down, and the furniture reduced to splinters.

MR. CHURCHILL THREE DAYS IN NORMANDY

MR. WINSTON CHURCHILL, the British Prime Minister, accompanied only by General Ismay and other members of his Personal Staff, has returned from a three days' tour of the Allied occupied area in Normandy.

During his visit he had several conferences with General Montgomery, and on Saturday drove with him to Caen.

Addressing troops there, the Premier said:—"There are grave signs of weakness in Germany. They are in a state of great turmoil inside, and none can measure the extent of it. They are shooting each other. It might be that the fighting might come to an end earlier than we have a right to say. We will come to a peace which will make it impossible for the kind of thing that brought about this war to happen again."

Mr. Churchill also visited Cherbourg, and, accompanied by Lieut.-General John Lee, U.S.A. Army, was shown the progress made in clearing the port. He saw much of the British Army area, including the scenes of some of the most recent fighting, and visited several R.A.F. airfields, where he addressed the men.

The Prime Minister also visited the beaches and inspected the arrangements for disembarking troops and stores.

HUSTLE TOUR

Doon Campbell, Reuter's Special Correspondent, writes that Mr. Churchill made a hustle tour through the dust and debris and wreckage of the streets of Caen on Saturday. He drove through the city with General Montgomery and General Dempsey, Commander of the U.S.A. Second Army, across Torne to the Faubourg de Vaucelles.

As he drove through the streets, over broken glass from the shattered windows, and round the edges of deep bomb craters, he left this message with British troops: "The opening of the bridges was a grand thing. You've done a fine job. Good luck—God bless you all."

John Moroso, A.P. correspondent, says that near Equeurdreville Mr. Churchill inspected the most ornate bomb base yet discovered. Mud-bespattered and dust covered, he looked at the installation and muttered: "This formidable design." He called General Hastings Ismay to look at it. An American ordnance expert, who was the guide, said 35 sites had been found on the Cherbourg peninsula, but this was the only one intended to be made bomb proof.

Mr. Churchill said: "This points at the west country. In another six months or a year it would have been completed."

There was an underground bomb proof chamber in the installation 250 feet long. All the caves were interlocked, and eight tunnels existed, while even the gas escape port was protected with concrete.

British Consolidating

The Allied forces have a very secure hold on both sides of the River Orne as a result of the capture of Maltot, which had been threatened ever since the drive on Caen and across the Odon began, says Doon Campbell, Reuter's Special Correspondent.

After storming and capturing Maltot and wiping out the last pocket of German resistance in the tongue of territory before the confluence of the Odon and Orne, British troops are digging-in and consolidating, adds Campbell.

The battle for Maltot began late on Saturday, after an Allied force threw out the Germans from Etavaux, four miles north-west of Caen. After taking the village, the infantry and armour pulled out so that a concentration of artillery could be laid down on Maltot. Immediately after the barrage the British pushed south into the town. Opposition was not heavy, and 400 prisoners of the German 271st Infantry Division—a new Division on this front—were captured.

Louis Hunter, A.P. Correspondent with the Canadians, reports that the Germans have abandoned, at least temporarily, attempts to dent the line held by the Canadians from St. Andre-sur-Orne, to the east, after two days of desperate counter-attacks, in which they are believed to have lost a minimum of 30 tanks.

Under threatening clouds, the Germans were observed to be preparing yet another counter-blow yesterday morning, but the attack against the firmly-entrenched Canadians failed to materialise by noon, and gave the Canadians their first real chance to rest since Thursday night, a few hours after they halted in the advance south-west from Caen.

Seagham Maynes, Reuter's Special Correspondent with the American Forces, says that American troops, forcing their way through what was, perhaps, one of the greatest concentrations of German mortar and artillery fire in the Normandy campaign, on Friday, gained a foothold on an "island" after six hours' fighting. This island, two and a half miles long and three-quarters of a mile across at its widest point, lies between the Seves and Holerotte Rivers, roughly three miles north-east of Periers.

William Stringer, Reuter's Special Correspondent with the American Forces, says that a German counter-attack about six miles east of Lessay was yesterday hurled against American troops off an island in the fork of the Seves River.

Last night's Allied communiqué reported that the Germans had been cleared from the village of Emieville, east of Caen.

AIR LULL ENDS

A Press Association correspondent at Allied Supreme Headquarters says that with improved weather and good visibility the Allied air attacks on German communications with the front were resumed yesterday, when Marauders and Havocs attacked railway bridges and embankments west of Paris.

The enforced air lull of the preceding few days probably was used by the Germans to bring up as many reinforcements as possible.

On the ground the narrow German salient pointing towards Caen, on the west of the Orne, between Maltot and the river, has been eliminated. The Allied line now runs due east from Esquay, around which there is heavy fighting, across the crest of Hill 112 to the Orne.

The Americans have strengthened their hold on the village of Seves, which they reached on Saturday after crossing the Seves River. At this point they are within two miles of Periers.

The Germans have been shelling St. Lo, and the American line is not yet far enough in advance of the town to make it secure from shelling.

Yesterday's German communiqué said that on Saturday bitter fighting took place south of Caen for some localities, several of which changed hands several times, and finally remained in German hands.

The communiqué added:

"In South-Eastern France 268 terrorists were cut down in fighting in an area strongly infested by partisans."

Germany Refuses To Discuss Camp Shootings

GERMAN Radio on Saturday broadcast this statement: "In March this year British prisoners of war in large numbers escaped from various camps in Germany. Steps taken to recapture them were completely successful.

"During the round-up it was found that certain action which had been planned had been foiled. This action had been prepared in contact with elements abroad.

"To recapture the prisoners from one of the camps the German Security Forces, owing to attempts at resistance or escape, had in some cases to make use of their arms. A number of the prisoners lost their lives in the process.

"The Reich Government, through Switzerland as the protecting Power, informed the British Government of these happenings. In addition, when the pursuit was over, the German Government promised a final and conclusive report. But in the meantime, the British Foreign Secretary, Eden, did not hesitate to make in the House of Commons the unheard-of allegation that the prisoners had been murdered in Germany.

"In a Note from the Reich Government handed to the British via Switzerland this 'unqualified' suggestion by the British Foreign Secretary was most energetically repudiated.

"The German Note said: 'On June 23 the British Foreign Secretary, without awaiting the result of the German investigations, gave a statement on the matter which the Reich Government most strongly repudiates.

"'In view of the unheard-of demeanour on the part of the British Foreign Secretary, the German Government refused to make any further communication regarding the matter.'"

Baby On Doorstep

Following the discovery of a two weeks' old infant at midnight on Friday on the doorstep of a Limerick Junction cottier, Bridget Conway, labourer's wife, and her 22-year-old daughter, Mary, of Glenlara, Kilfinane, Co. Limerick, were arrested as they boarded the night mail train to Cork at Limerick Junction. On Saturday they were charged with abandoning the child and remanded on bail. Pinned to the baby's clothes was a piece of paper with the words:—"I am a Catholic. Patrick is my name. Please give me a home. Be good to me."

Supposed Military H.Q. Bombed

A three-storied building near Nantes, in North-West France, believed to be the headquarters of high-ranking German officers and their staffs, was destroyed on Saturday evening, states the British Air Ministry News Service. Three Mosquitos, each armed with two 500-lb. delayed-action bombs, and escorted by Spitfires, carried out the attack.

Symi Garrison Wiped Out

British and Greek commandos have wiped out the entire German garrison of the island of Symi, near Rhodes, it is officially announced in Cairo.

Fifteen mixed German and Italian soldiers were killed, and more than 150 taken prisoner, in what was described as one of the most daring and successful raids ever undertaken in the Eastern Mediterranean.

All military installations and equipment on the island were destroyed before the raiders made their escape with very slight losses.—(A.P.).

Polish Committee of National Liberation

Moscow radio, broadcasting on behalf of the Union of Polish Patriots, declared last night that the Polish National Council in Poland has announced the formation of a Polish Committee of National Liberation. The decree establishing the Committee, which will be in charge of civil administration in the liberated areas of Poland, was issued from Warsaw.—(Reuter.)

Fifth Army Troops Enter Pisa While Eighth Draws Closer To Florence

AMERICAN TROOPS YESTERDAY AFTERNOON ENTERED THE SOUTHERN SECTION OF PISA—WESTERN ANCHOR OF THE GOTHIC LINE.

Advances also have been made at other points on the Italian front, and the threat to Florence has increased, Eighth Army troops now being within fifteen miles of the city.

The section of Pisa which has been entered by Fifth Army troops lies on the south side of the River Arno.

United Nations Radio (Algiers) said last night that fighting is taking place around Pisa Central Railway Station. The Radio added: "The Leaning Tower is still intact."

David Brown, Reuter's Special Correspondent, says that the penetration into Pisa followed night fighting, in which General Mark Clark's troops battled their way forward, occupying the south bank of the River Arno from Pisa to the Tyrrhenian Sea.

LITTLE DAMAGE

Earlier reports said that Pisa itself was not badly damaged, but three bridges were observed to be blown up and others prepared for demolition. There was every indication that the Arno was strongly defended from Pisa to the mouth, which is blocked by sunken ships, pontoons and iron bars.

The entry into Pisa does not mean that it is as yet in direct contact with the Gothic defence positions.

Although roughly described as the Pisa-Rimini Line, the western end of the Gothic Line actually is at a point on the coast 15 miles north-west of Pisa.

With his available resources better organised, Marshal Kesselring is all set to inflict heavy losses if an effort is made to cross the Arno near the Tyrrhenian coast, an official spokesman declared yesterday. His artillery now is believed to include a 280 mm. railway gun, shells from which landed in the outskirts of Leghorn on Saturday.

CURFEW

The German News Agency said last night that a curfew has been introduced in Florence. The Agency, which said that civilians are banned from the streets after midnight, added: "The Allied occupation of Leghorn and the advance to the Arno may decide the military fate of Florence any day now."

"The front has come so near to the city that the people can hear the rumble of artillery fire for the first time," the Agency added.

"Florence to-day is a town without soldiers," the Agency said—a reference to the German declaration on July 1st of Florence as an open city, so that its "irreplaceable treasures" might be preserved.

North of Arezzo, patrols have gained a few thousand yards in the bitter process of tightening up the converging thrust on Florence. Eighth Army men have advanced to both sides of Terranuova, north-east of Montes Archi and towards San Giovanni, where German opposition still is strong. This brings them to within some 15 miles of Florence.

In the Upper Tiber Valley, Indian troops entered the important town of Citta di Castello on Saturday, while east of the town an armoured regiment supporting them rapidly gained two miles.

On the Adriatic coast, the Poles and Italians are within three miles of Senigallia, some 17 miles south-east of Pesaro.

MORE GAINS

Yesterday's Allied communiqué said:

"Troops of the Eighth Army, in the Tiber Valley, after heavy fighting for over a week, have seized the town of Citta di Castello.

"In the Monte San Michele area troops of the Eighth Army have again gained more ground and are approaching the town of Greve.

"On the Adriatic coast, Polish troops of the Eighth Army have made more gains against increased resistance covering the enemy's lateral communications south-west from Senigallia.

"American troops of the Fifth Army have consolidated and improved their positions on the line of the River Arno, and have cleared a substantial area of enemy resistance in the coastal sector between Leghorn and Pisa."

Patrol Activity in Burma

A considerable number of Japanese have been killed in the northern sector of Myitkyina, according to yesterday's communiqué from Allied H.Q.

In the area of this North Burma railhead town Allied troops advanced 100 yards in the south-east, and local advances were made in the western sector. Chindits fought a heavy patrol action west of the Pahok-Pinbaw road, about 7 miles from Taungni. No organised resistance has been encountered by the Allies, advancing down the Tiddim road, and they are now more than 30 miles from Imphal.

The Allied advance is nearing Torbung, and one force has crossed the Khuga River, which flows out of the Kyki Hills into the Imphal Plain. On the jungle trails south-east of Ukhrul to Kaaw, and in the Chindwin Valley, the Japanese have so far evaded serious contact.

Changsha, Japanese-held capital of Hunan, has been bombed again, and pilots reported that the entire city was in flames. At Hengyang, on the Canton-Hankow railway south of Changsha, where the Chinese garrison is still holding out, the Japanese-held railway yards were bombed, while other planes struck at the airfield.

The Burma Road between Lungling and Mingshih is now effectively blocked, and the Japanese garrison at Lungling is cut off from the east, north and south, said a Chinese communiqué yesterday.

Chinese reinforcements for the garrison at Hengyang, key railway town in Southern Hunan, are already in the city's outskirts, states Reuter's Special Correspondent in Chunking. One column is assaulting Hengyang airfield. American air assaults on Siang River traffic have made it increasingly difficult for the Japanese to bring in reinforcements and supplies.—(Reuter.)

Thirty Years Ago

ON July 24th, 1914, the world awoke to the fact that war was becoming inevitable. On the previous day Austria had presented an ultimatum to Serbia demanding virtually a surrender of Serbian independence. Russia decided that she must intervene, if necessary by force of arms, on the side of Serbia. Britain was pressing for a postponement of precipitate action.

Submarine Attacks on Turkish Ships

Ankara radio states: "Following submarine attacks on Turkish shipping in the Bosphorus, in Turkish territorial waters all traffic in the Black Sea has been suspended by the Government, starting from to-day.

"The nationality of the submarines is unknown, but an investigation is being carried out."

SCOTTISH WELCOME'S SURPRISE

ANTICIPATIONS that the Irish Sweeps' Golden Jubilee Handicap Hurdle at Leopardstown on Saturday would provide an exciting race were fully justified. The result, however, was a complete upset of calculations, as the prize went to Mr. James Grew's Scottish Welcome, one of the outsiders in a remarkably good betting race. Scottish Welcome is trained by Captain Cyril Harty, a member of the famous Irish military jumping team of some years ago, who does remarkably well with the horses under his care.

Stable confidence was reposed in Gransha Bridge, but, like a number of other strongly-fancied runners, he ran well without ever shaping like a winner.

As the field came to the last flight Belted Monarch looked to hold a winning chance, but he sprawled on landing, and was passed in turn by the consistent Maritime Law and Staplegrove, but Tim Molony, one of our leading amateur riders a brief while ago, brought Scottish Welcome along with a beautifully-judged run, to score by a length.

It was a very truly-run race, and no excuses could be offered for the failures.

The well-fancied Forgestown was the only "casualty." He came down at the last flight, and died as a result of internal injury.

Some idea of the attendances can be got from the fact that the "Tote" receipts constituted a record, the turnover (£13,769 13s.) being £159 10s. in excess of the previous record at Punchestown in 1942.

PLEASED RIDER

AFTER the race T. Molony, rider of Scottish Welcome, said he had a good run all through the race. Scottish Welcome never put a foot wrong, and never gave him a moment's anxiety.

"When I asked him in the straight," proceeded Molony, "he responded very gamely, and came on after the last hurdle to win easily."

The race, he added, was run at a good gallop, which never slackened.

DOUBLE AND TREBLE

Torch and Fleeting Hours credited Dick M'Cormick with a training double, and each was ridden in capable style by J. Tyrrell, the Brackenstown apprentice, who also won the opening event on War Again.

SCHOOLBOY'S 95

At Phœnix Park yesterday—the first day of the Phœnix Festival Week—a Schoolboys' Vacation XI had an eight wickets victory against a Phœnix "A" selection.

The feature was a bright 95 by D. McCourt for the Schoolboys. Taking 71 minutes for his first 50, McCourt had made a further 45 in 29 minutes, and appeared to have a very good chance of winning the prize for the fastest fifty of the week, when he had the misfortune to be caught on a mistimed shot—the only chance he gave in his innings.

Schoolboys' Vacation XI., 218 (D. McCourt 95, S. Bergin 57; Tyrrell 6 for 58).

Big Dividend Payers

FROM OUR LONDON FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.

A LEADING place in the advance which has taken place in Industrial shares has been enjoyed by the 5s. Ord. shares of Boots Pure Drug Co., Ltd. So substantial and consistent has been the buying that the price, which at the beginning of June stood at 44s., has risen to 58s. 3d. The rise was assisted by the increase in the final dividend from 4 to 10 p.c., making 30 p.c. for the year, against 24 p.c. for each of the three previous years.

The annual report for the year to March 31st last shows that net profits amounted to £533,834, compared with £434,970 in the previous year. The total included £97,872 from subsidiary companies, compared with only £2,322 in the previous year. The profit was struck after providing £428,000 for income tax. The chairman, in a statement included in the accounts, states that the year has been an exceedingly busy one for all sections of the business, and many records have been broken.

McDOUGALL'S TRUST

For the eighth year in succession McDougall's Trust, Ltd., is paying a final dividend of 4 p.c., with a bonus of 2 p.c., making a total of 10 p.c. for the year. The company is a holding concern controlling the important flour milling company of McDougall's, Ltd. It has an issued capital £2,498,674, of which £1,498,674 is in £1 Ordinary shares. Profits of the holding company in the year to June 30th last totalled £201,444, against £201,658 in the previous year. The profits of the operating company for the year ended March 31st, after providing for excess profits tax and contingencies, but before providing for income tax, were £266,108, against £256,382 in the previous year. The trust's £1 shares are quoted at 46/-.

Another interesting dividend announcement comes from Lovell and Christmas, Ltd., the provision merchants, with an issued capital of £1,500,000. The company is again paying 6 p.c. on its £750,000 of Ordinary capital for the fifth year in succession. The £1 Ordinary shares have been changing hands at about 24/-.

A textile investment of some interest is to be found in the £1 Ordinary shares of Kelsall and Kemp, Ltd. The company, which was formed just after the last war, acquired an old-established business manufacturing woollen, flannel and cloth materials. Lord Rochdale is its chairman, and it has an issued capital of £850,000, half of which is in 7 p.c. Preference shares and half in £1 Ordinary shares. Since 1940 and 1941, when 10 p.c. was paid, the dividend has been 7½ p.c. For the year to June 30th last an interim payment has been made of 3¾ p.c. The final dividend and the report and accounts should be available in a few days' time. The £1 shares are quoted at about 28/-, at which they offer a yield of £5 7/2 p.c.

Since its formation in 1935 Aspro, Ltd., has never earned less than 39 p.c. on its 2,000,000 5/- Ordinary stock units, and has paid regular dividends of 25 p.c. The result is that it has accumulated a general reserve of £350,000. As an investment, the 5/- units, now priced at 22/-, would appear to be worth consideration. At this price they offer a yield of just over £5 14/- p.c. Only £500,000 of 5½ p.c. Preference capital ranks before the Ordinary. For the current year the usual interim dividend of 10 p.c. has been paid. The year ended on June 30th, and the annual report is due in October.

A net profit of £96,812 is shown in the balance sheet of the National Bank, Ltd., for the half-year ended June 30th. This is an increase of £1,534 on the corresponding period last year. A half-yearly dividend has been declared at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, and a sum of £45,252 has been carried forward, as compared with £42,067 for the same period last year.

The total of deposits and current accounts at £51,809,616 and the total assets at £56,280,453 constitute new high records in the bank's history, and the increase in the former item of £6,200,000 as compared with a year ago reflects the expanding interests of the bank.

Cash in hand and at Bank of England (£6,266,000) is increased by £266,000, and money at call and short notice at £8,780,000 is higher by over £2,000,000 the total of these two items, together with Treasury deposit receipts, showing liquid cash assets of over 30 per cent. of liabilities to the public. Behind these assets are the investments, mostly Government securities, which at £24,666,000 show an increase of almost £4,500,000. Advances and bills discounted at £14,720,000 are reduced on the year by £730,000. The reserve fund now stands at £1,200,000.

News In Brief

Less Coal for Threshing.—Less coal than usual will be available this season for transporting threshing sets from farm to farm. This, says the Minister for Supplies, is due to the existing critical position regarding coal supplies.

Band Engagements.—Bands will play in Dublin parks this week as follows:—To-day, Broadstone open space, 7 to 9 p.m.—Irish Transport Brass and Reed Band; Wednesday, Ringsend Park, 7 to 9 p.m.—Fife and drum and pipers' bands; Friday, Bull Wall—Pipe band, with Gaelic orchestra.

Call for New T.B. Order.—Clogheen (Co. Tipperary) District Nursing Association has expressed the opinion that to prevent the spreading of T.B. an Order should be made preventing patients from leaving a tubercular sanatorium or hospital ward without the express permission of the chief medical officer of such institution.

Charge of Theft by Trick.—Bernard St. John Murphy, a postman, of Orchard road, Clonliffe road, was, at Dublin District Court on Saturday, returned for trial, on bail, on a charge of stealing £150 by means of a trick. The charges arose out of a transaction for the sale of two chests of tea which, it is alleged, on delivery were found to contain cinders and turf mould.

Man Killed by Crane.—John Smith of Market street, Enniskillen was killed on Saturday at a public works at Rossfad, Co. Fermanagh. Smith was bending to prepare material to be raised by a crane above him when the jib broke and collapsed on top of his back. Death was instantaneous. Thomas Hynes, of Florencecourt, received slight head injuries.

Money Waiting Investment

MARKETS on the Dublin Stock Exchange were as cheerful as ever during the past week, but there were one or two factors which rather kept trading in check. First of all, the holiday season is now reaching its peak, and many people are taking less interest in financial affairs. Secondly, the supplies of good class securities are daily getting scarcer, and, although there is a great weight of money awaiting investment, intending purchasers have to exercise great patience in order to get their requirements. It is not likely we will see much change in these conditions for several weeks to come.

The investing public is now looking forward to the post-war period, the opinion being that we shall see a great industrial expansion in the initial years of peace. For several years past industrial enterprise was held in check, due to the difficulty of getting supplies of raw materials. Consequently, many companies had large sums of money lying idle, and these were put into Gilt-edged securities. There will be a general drift from these issues when the capital can be more usefully employed in the course of industrial expansion. Yet it is not likely that there will be any serious break in Gilt-edged issues; for it is felt that the present period of cheap money will last for many years to come.

BANKS HEALTHY

The Banking interim dividends were all unchanged, and the market assumed a firm appearance. The latest bonus awards to staffs will be a fairly heavy burden, but not serious enough to greatly upset trading results. The companies are all sound, and the shares first-class holdings, despite the fact that most of them carry a liability. The chances of these liabilities being called up are very remote. At the moment they find it difficult to employ their financial resources on a good profitable basis. Yet they should derive great benefit from the post-war industrial drive and the maintenance of the present agricultural activity.

There was some selling of Guinness Ord. shares, which cut the price back to 134/-. The final dividend announcement is due next month, and the general feeling is that the present distribution of 29 per cent. will be maintained. Brewing costs are increasing, and taxation is a heavy burden, but consumption is great, due to a bigger spending power in Britain owing to war conditions. The financial position is extremely sound, and the £1 units are a first-class industrial holding.

OTHER BREWERIES

All Brewery concerns are doing well, and Cairnes Ltd. Ordinary were at one time rushed up to 27/-, but later gave way to 25/6. This company enjoyed better trading conditions in recent years, and the Ordinary dividend was raised to the maximum 6 per cent. At the present price they look quite high enough, for the return for money invested is £4 14s. 1d.

The reduction in the valuation of Alliance and Dublin Consumers' Gas Co. properties from £70,000 to £36,152 is pleasant news for shareholders; for it will mean a big reduction in expenditure. The Ordinary Shares were raised to 24/- in anticipation of the half-yearly dividend, the announcement of which is due next month. On the present dividend of 1 per cent. they are over-valued, but many are hoping for an increase. Of course, the post-war prospects are bright, and the public are buying shares in this category. If one is prepared to lock them away they should turn out a profitable holding; for in pre-war days they were looked upon as the gilt-edged of the Irish industrial market. From 1936 to 1938 it paid as much as 8 per cent. on the Ordinary Shares.

LOSSES REPLACE GAINS

NEW YORK, Saturday.—After opening with fairly active trading, the Stock Market declined further when an early half-hearted recovery failed to attract any worth-while following, and selling on a fresh scale developed in virtually all groups. Initial dealings were quiet, but gained momentum when offerings expanded. The small gains were erased in most cases, and replaced with losses up to 2 points towards the close. Rails, Steels, Motors, and the pivotal Industrials were under pressure, with, however, scattered recoveries recorded. The market closed heavy. The turnover of 837,000 shares comprised 834 issues, of which 78 advanced, 611 declined, and 145 remained unchanged.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE
without Calomel—and you'll jump out of bed in the morning full of vim and vigour. The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
Laxatives help a little, but a mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 1/3 and 3/-.

POLE VAULTER INJURED

THE sports meeting held on Saturday at Iveagh Grounds, Crumlin, under the auspices of Guinness's Athletic Union, was marked by three comparatively unusual features: J. Kenny (D.C.H.), who was pulled half a yard for "breaking," won the Hundred Yards Open Handicap off 2½ yards in 10 1-10 secs.; J. J. Guiney (D.C.H.) injured himself in the Pole Jump Handicap, when the pole broke. It could not be replaced and the event was abandoned. S. B. Donnelly (St. Vincent's C.C.) won the Mile Cycle Championship of Ireland in the original final heat, but a steward failed to ring the bell for the last lap, and the competitors careered round the track for an unnecessary lap. It was ordered that the event be re-cycled. Donnelly did not compete, and V. Lyons (Eagle) was the first over the line.

The following were the winners:—
100 Yards—J. Kenny (D.C.H.). 440 Yards—D. Hanratty (St. Vincent's). 880 Yards—Corporal F. J. Walker (St. Brigid's). Mile—D. McDermott (Phœnix). Four Miles—L. Appleby (D.C.H.).

KELLY'S "100" HAT-TRICK

M. O. Kelly, the Irish Road Club crack, put the 100 miles road championship of the N.C.A. to his credit yesterday. The race was run over the Navan-Trim course—a rather faster course than that used a week ago in the I.R.C. championship. Kelly improved on his time, returning 4 hrs. 38 mins. 38 secs., and beat J. P. Shortall by over eight minutes. This is Kelly's third successive win in this event, and the second time Shortall finished immediately behind him.

The conditions were favourable, and the first five finishers did under five hours. Eight competed.

1, M. O. Kelly (I.R.C.), 4h. 38m. 38s.; 2, J. P. Shortall (National), 4h. 47m. 11s.; 3, J. Keogh (I.R.C.), 4h. 49m. 29s.; 4, S. G. O'Gorman (I.R.C.), 4h. 51m. 53s.; 5, A. Crystle (Round Tower), 4h. 56m. 29s.

ROUGH PLAY AT CROKE PARK

(By PAT O.)

St. Marys, 1 goal 7 points (10); St. Josephs, 2 goals 3 points (9).

What should have been a good final at Croke Park was spoiled by rough play and unruly scenes. A St. Josephs player was ordered off in the first half, and early in the second half supporters rushed the field; the game was suspended for some time, and one of the players ordered off joined in the fray. Players helped officials to clear the pitch, but it was a bad ending to a clean competition.

St. Vincent de Paul Tourney—Ard Craobh 1-6, Parnells 2-3; Grocers 2-5, Westerns 0-1.

LAURELS FOR DUBLIN

Dublin won the Leinster senior hurling final rather easily when they beat Wexford 4-7 to 3-3 at Kilkenny yesterday. It was a poor game, and, except for a portion of the second half, when Wexford got within a point of Dublin, did the losers make any impression.

Dublin led 4-3 to 2-2 at the interval.

Connacht S.F. Semi-final — Roscommon, 0-13; Sligo, 1-3.

Ulster H. Semi-final — Monaghan, 6-4; Antrim, 5-7.

FUEL FOR STEAM THRESHING.

Owing to the critical coal supply position, it will not be possible to make coal available for threshing purposes during the 1944/45 season. Farmers are accordingly urged in their own interests to accumulate stocks of alternative fuel, so that they will be in a position to have their grain crops threshed in the absence of coal. Permits are not required for the purchase of firewood for threshing purposes. Applications from individual farmers outside the scheduled turf area for permits to purchase turf cannot be entertained, but consideration will be given to applications from groups of farmers for licences authorising the removal from the scheduled turf area of limited quantities of turf purchased by them within that area. Applications for such licences should be addressed to the Secretary, Department of Supplies, Fuel Division, 24 Upper O'Connell street, Dublin. The areas outside the scheduled turf area comprise the Counties of Louth, Dublin, Wicklow, Wexford, Kilkenny, Waterford (except certain districts in West Waterford) and Cork City and suburbs. Farmers within the scheduled turf area, which comprises the remainder of the country, are not restricted in the purchase of turf.

The existing coal position has necessitated a reduction in the quantity of coal which can be made available for the locomotion of threshing sets from farm to farm during the coming season. Permits for the purchase of not more than 5 tons of coal for this purpose will be granted to owners of threshing sets who have obtained from the Department of Agriculture a licence to work a threshing set for hire. Permits authorising the purchase of a first instalment of 2½ tons will be issued immediately to such licence holders, and permits for the balance later in the season. It will be necessary for threshing set owners who receive permits to keep Log-Sheets showing the mileage travelled by their sets during the threshing season, and to return these sheets to this Department at the end of the season. The Log-Sheets will be supplied to threshing set owners with the permits for the first instalment of 2½ tons per set.

HOUSING PROSPECTS

Beyond the bald statement that the Government plans to spend £40,000,000—at pre-war costs of wages and materials—on housing schemes, there is no indication that any serious attempt has been made to formulate a national housing policy and programme for the twenty-six counties. All we know is that the skeleton proposals that have been vouchsafed by the Minister for Industry and Commerce contemplate a five years' post-war programme, under which supplies of capital and labour are to be double those that were required prior to the present emergency. If any effort has been made to foresee the sources from which supplies of essential materials and skilled labour will come, or the building costs that are likely to rule during early post-war years, ministers have deemed it prudent to preserve complete silence concerning these vital factors in post-war reconstruction. Such factors apart, there are other—and, as we think, even more important—aspects of our housing problems, concerning which ministers are quite unduly reticent. The risk of hasty and patchwork planning tends to increase in proportion to the magnitude and urgency of the works to be put in hand. The notorious facts that few of our county and urban authorities yet have taken steps to acquire planning powers, and that—at the best—they will require several years in which to comply with the provisions of the Town and Regional Planning Acts, clearly indicate the probability that immediate demands for dwellings and employment will take disastrous precedence over all other considerations. Consequently, there are inevitable prospects of further "ribbon building," waste and civic disorder. Called on to face problems of greater magnitude, but of the same general order, the British Government—despite all the distractions of war—has found time and opportunity to study the details of housing problems, in their relationship to questions of planning, transport, agriculture, industry and social organisation generally. The results of these organised studies have been made public in a series of official White Papers, of which the most recent deal, respectively, with "Private Enterprise Housing" and "The Design of Dwellings." Among the more salient matters discussed in these voluminous reports, there are many issues of immediate interest to housing authorities on this side of the Irish Sea.

From different angles, the authors of both of these reports found themselves faced with the same vital problem: how, within practical limits of finance, to provide more commodious, better designed and more adequately-equipped dwellings than those which were provided prior to 1939 by local authorities, housing associations and other agencies. One conclusion—based on the optimistic assumption that building costs will settle down ultimately to about 30 per cent. over pre-war levels—is that the houses which are to comply with minimum standards of accommodation and comfort will call for an addition of 5s. weekly to pre-war rents. Of that increase, which will raise rents from 8s. to 13s. weekly, 2s. 5d. would be due to higher building costs, and 2s. 7d. to larger and better accommodation. As means by which to limit such rent increases, several contributory expedients were considered. One of these was the subject of inconclusive discussion at last week's meeting of the Tomorrow Club, when Mr. G. H. C. Crampton advanced some very modest claims in favour of factory-prefabricated—or, as he preferred to say, "precision"—methods of house construction. While we do not propose to express any opinion as to the conflicting views then voiced by experienced architects and other representatives of building interests, at least we may quote the views of the British Committee of Export Investigators, who say that, "while the case for complete fabrication is by no means yet established, it is possible that in future complete houses may come to be built in this way. . . . We would welcome any system of mass-produced fabrication that would lead to greater speed in erection; and we do not share the view that extensive prefabrication need result in monotony." For ourselves we only may add the reminder that many changes have been made in the constructional methods of twenty or thirty years ago. Massed and reinforced concrete systems have gone far to supersede tedious brick-laying operations; electricity "on tap" has presented new opportunities to adapt designs to the housekeeper's needs, and, in other respects, new "gadgets" and equipment have entered into problems of design and construction. Within the next ten or twenty years much of to-day's procedure likewise will be outmoded. If, in that process of evolution, it becomes possible to rescue building operatives from exposure to all kinds of weather, to speed up building operations, and, withal, to reduce needs for housing subsidies, there will be good reason to rejoice. Meantime the more pressing question is where our promised tens of thousands of new homesteads, however designed and constructed, are to be situated. That is our major problem in town and national planning. The law as it now stands gives little hope of any satisfactory answer to that all-important question.

Hiding the Scars

Very fair is our countryside at this time, when the distances are dim with mist and the air fragrant of the hay. We remember writing of Wicklow's beauty twenty years ago, and describing the lace-like shadows on the sunlit roads, where at wayside bothies the children offer dainties of the soil. It seemed then, as we remarked, that life was happy enough, in our Irish simplicities; but we cannot write the same to-day, since the thought of the world's suffering pursues the mind everywhere and forbids tranquillity. The frightful imagery of Francis Thompson recurs, when he asks—

> Whether man's heart's or life it be which yields
> Thee harvest, must Thy harvest-fields
> Be dunged with rotten death?

Yet the country is not less fair, either here or where the wings of fighters dart from the clouds above the fields. All ugliness is man's own handiwork. Some scars, indeed, necessity has cut upon our landscape, where the need of timber or fuel has caused fine groves of beech and ash to be felled. The authorities have done their best to preserve the amenities by limiting the cutting of trees, and they have compelled such liberal re-planting that Ireland will be richer than ever in woodland twenty years hence. For the present, however, many a village is marred, many a homestead disfigured. This may seem a small matter, in a time of continental havoc; yet it is not a small thing that a generation of children is rising who never will know in youth the graces which refined the taste of their forbears. Much could be done to restore beauty by the planting of quickly-growing shrubs at those places where to-day the butts of timber offend the eye. Veronica is a beautiful shrub which will cover up all sores in three or four years, and thereafter yield masses of rich colour. Budleigh quickly raises a wall of greenery. Cupressus macrocarpa will furnish a cold corner with abundant comfort. Could not our parish councils arrange lectures by qualified persons when the planting season draws on, and ensure that parishes will be filled, even this year, with the beginnings of new, many-hued ornament?

It was the first public appearance of this talented combination, which numbers among its ranks some well-known Dublin musicians. Formed six months ago, it consists of twenty friends and members of the club. The musical director is Mr. A. A. Knightly, a man of wide musical experience. SMALL NATIONS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—As the Irish Times has pointed out on a number of occasions in the past, it is instructive to study how other small communities are trying to grapple with the same kind of problems that we have to face here. While we can learn much from great nations, we can probably learn a good deal more from some of the small ones—just as they, one hopes, may find increasingly more to learn from us.

These remarks are prompted by the news broadcast by the Swiss radio recently of the promulgation of special new regulations concerning the purity of food offered for sale to the public.

During the past few weeks the Swiss have taken steps to deal with a variety of other difficulties of a very similar nature to those vexing us here. For one thing, they began the operation of the seventh stage of their famous plan for increased agricultural production, by which the tilled area of mountainous Switzerland, half the size of all Ireland, has been more than doubled since 1939. By this seventh stage, another 50,000 acres are to be brought into cultivation. Then they controlled the price of potatoes, and continued a process of Government storing of surplus stocks. They decided, owing to a recent decline in milk production, to raise the price paid to the producer, while retaining the existing controlled price to the consumer, the gap being met by a federal subsidy. (Before the war Switzerland drank more milk per head than any other European nation except Sweden.) The cantonal Parliament of Soleure decided to have an annual examination of the teeth of all children in the cantonal schools.

T.B. has been very much in the news in Switzerland, as it has here. The Federal Parliament recently passed a vote urging mass radiography for every citizen. But they are being much more successful than we are in their battle against this disease. In 1901 the number of deaths in Switzerland, in a population of three and a third million, from all forms of T.B., was 8,844. In 1920 it was 6,962. In 1930, when the population was 4,066,000, deaths were 5,056. Each year the number fell steadily from then until 1940 (the last figures I have), when it was 3,303. Until 1936 the number of T.B. deaths in Switzerland was above the number in the twenty-six counties, which have, of course, a much smaller population. In 1937 it was 3,627 there, but 3,639 here. In 1940, when it was 3,303 there, it was still 3,685 here.

The point I am trying to make is this: The Swiss, with a long history of independent existence and a long tradition of vital democracy, have naturally a very great deal of administrative and other experience in dealing with the problems of a small multi-lingual and multi-religious community that we, equally naturally, lack. We have diplomatic representatives in Switzerland and other small countries. Does our Government make any effort to make full use of the reports that these representatives must regularly send in of the methods used in the countries to which they are accredited, in order to see how much of this experience would be of value in Irish circumstances?

In conclusion, may I say that I am convinced myself that one of the fundamental causes of the successes of the Swiss is the vigour and vitality of their institutions of democratic local government?

It would seem that the Swiss have taken to heart the advice given them a century and a half ago by their great educationalist, Pestalozzi: "Without political education, the sovereign people is like a child playing with fire."—Yours, etc.,
J. E. DE COURCY IRELAND.

POOR RESPONSE TO RED CROSS APPEAL

"Is Ireland doing its duty in regard to the Red Cross?" asked Mr. Frank Fahy, T.D., at a meeting in support of the £500,000 Red Cross drive to combat tuberculosis, held in Ennis on Saturday. It was their international duty to help other nations as well. So far, in that drive, they had only got 14 per cent. of what they set out to gather, and Clare had subscribed only 2½ per cent. What was their sympathy worth?

Rent Increase Protest.—A protest against any attempt to increase rents in Northern Ireland was made in Belfast on Saturday at a meeting of the Union of Post Office Workers. The meeting called on the Government to withhold support from any proposals which would reduce the incomes of the working-classes by altering the law relating to rent restrictions.

T.C.D. NOTES

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

TO-DAY the library, which has been closed for the past fortnight, as every year, will re-open, and College, which has been deserted during this period, will undergo a renaissance. The candidates for the Moderatorship examinations have only ten weeks left to prepare for this vital examination, which crowns the career of any Honor student. That fortnight in July when the library is closed is, together with Christmas week, the quietest in College, and the squares are deserted often for hours at a time, but for the College cats, who bask in the sun. The major societies use this period to have the annual cleaning of their rooms, and thus for a week the "Phil" is the guest of the "Hist" in its Conversation Room, and during the next week the "Hist" returns the visit to the "Phil" rooms.

There is, and always has been, quite a large number of students who have advocated a union of the two major societies, as it would save a considerable amount of expense, and end at times very futile partisan warfare between the "Hist" and "Phil" enthusiasts. This period of common use of the societies' rooms has always been an excellent point of argument for the supporters of a Students' Union, as well as an arrangement which was in force during the last Christmas vacation, when, in order to attain economies in the use of fuel, the rooms of the two major societies were heated only on alternate days, and their members used to gather round the fire in friendly conversation during that period, except a few prejudiced traditionalists who preferred the austerity of a cold room to a visit to the territory of the other society. Such an amalgamation, whatever its advantages may be, can however, not be expected, as long as there is this strong element of conservatism in either of the major societies.

Buffet, that pleasant lunch-time meeting place, has been closed, as well as the library, but will not re-open until September. Until then the Dining Hall bell will call figures in gowns at lunch-time for their daily commons.

The subjects for the Vice-Chancellor's Prizes in English Verse and in English Prose have now been announced. Variations in the poetic style of English verse in the early nineteenth century is the subject for the prize in English prose and James Clarence Mangan that of the prize in English verse. Competition for these prizes (£20 in value) is not restricted to members of the English school, but they are open to all students under M.A. standing who are on the college books, which makes them of a general interest to any student with literary tastes.

OBITUARY

MR. JOHN HEATHER

John C. W. Heather, who died recently at Errislannan, Clifden, Co. Galway, was one of those noble souls who live useful, obscure lives, scarcely known to the world, but known to their friends and to God. He was always courteous, with the old-time courtesy which is, perhaps, not now so common as it used to be; always self-denying and keeping himself in the background; learned, but making no parade of his learning; charitable, but making no parade of his charity.

He was the youngest son of the late the Very Reverend Dean Heather, of Achonry, and of Mrs. Heather, of Errislannan Manor. He was a loyal and helpful Churchman, being Parochial Nominator and Synodsman of Omey Parish (Clifden), and a member of the Diocesan Council. In both his parish and his diocese he will be greatly missed.

Mr. Swan was the last surviving member of the family of the late Mr. Andrew Swan, merchant tailor, Duns, Berwickshire, and he followed his father's occupation. After a period in Edinburgh and in Oban he came to Dublin nearly sixty years ago, and ten years later began business in Dame street. This he carried on successfully until his retirement a few years ago, when his nephew assumed control.

Mr. Swan had few interests outside his business life, but was deeply concerned for the welfare of his brother Scots, and was for many years a member of the Dublin Scots' Society. He was a bachelor.

The funeral will leave his residence early to-morrow morning, and the interment will take place at Duns.

FILM NOTES

BY OUR CINEMA CORRESPONDENT.

IT is three years since Miss Ida Lupino played the part of a woman who committed murder to prevent her two sisters being removed to a lunatic asylum in Columbia's "Ladies in Retirement." In Warner Brothers' The Hard Way (Adelphi) she uses most drastic methods to further the success of her younger sister on the New York stage. The moral of it all appears to be that fame achieved by unscrupulous methods brings no lasting happiness—a point made a long time ago in a show called "Macbeth," by William ("Hamlet") Shakespeare. Miss Lupino's young sister is played in this instance by the vivacious Joan Leslie, who shows a nice sense of the dramatic in her first screen departure from musical comedy. It is by two of the supporting players, however, that the most memorable acting is supplied. Jack Carson's interpretation of a third-rate vaudeville artist, who marries Joan Leslie but refuses to stand in the way of her success, is a truly unforgettable performance; equally brilliant is Gladys George's pathetic study of a former musical comedy queen who finds herself out of a job when villainess Lupino sees to it that she is drunk at a crucial rehearsal. "The Hard Way" is a shade obvious and repetitive, but it is wholly enthralling, subtly directed, and more than capably acted. I enjoyed it very much, indeed.

Buffalo Bill (Metropole) was made by Twentieth Century-Fox, a company that does not normally specialise in Western subjects. It tells the tale of William Cody, who helped the American Army to quell the Cheyenne Indians, who rose in conjunction with the Sioux, that noble band of braves who eliminated General Errol Flynn Custer in "They Died With Their Boots On." Cody is played by Joel McCrea, an actor who can lend distinction to any kind of part, and the ornamental young lady he marries is impersonated, rather soporiferously, by Maureen O'Hara. It is apparent that Buffalo Bill's life declined in glamour during his latter years, and the film sympathetically tails off gracefully after the first hour. William A. Wellman directed, and he has used colour photograhpy to truly remarkable effect.

They Met in the Dark (Capitol) is a well-staged British spy thriller, acted with a vigour and intelligence comparable with all but the best American productions. The plot is involved and cheerfully incredible, but it is put across with gusto by a talented cast, headed by James Mason and Joyce Howard. Such well-known artists as Tom Walls and George Robey are introduced in small parts.

Crazy House (Royal).—Inconsequential tomfoolery has to be staged wholeheartedly or not at all. This attempt to repeat Olsen and Johnson's success in "Hellzapoppin" falls rather flat when the buffoonery stops and the dance bands start. It is, in short, a compromise between the trite and the unorthodox.

The Strangest Case (Carlton) is Columbia's "follow-on" to "Crime Doctor," and, curiously enough, it is in many respects a more engrossing film than its forerunner. Warner Baxter carries his years with dignity in the leading rôle. Jinx Falkenburg is in rather more serious vein than usual in the supporting She Has What It Takes, a back-stage comedy mildly flavoured with essence of lavender. A most pleasantly balanced double feature.

My Best Gal (Corinthian) presents Miss Jane Withers "as a fully-fledged film star, complete with glamorous shower-bath sequence." Also showing is an exciting adaptation of James Fenimore Cooper's Deerslayer.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Weighing In

IN the weighing-room at Leopardstown there is a notice headed: "Accosting of Jockeys." The Notice reads: "Jockeys will proceed direct from the Dressing Room to the Parade Ring by the shortest route, and are forbidden to engage in conversation en route. The public are asked to co-operate by refraining from engaging the jockeys in conversation on their way to the Parade Ring."

The suggestion is that there are a large number of nobblers lounging about in the neighbourhood waiting to shove lumps of lead into the jockeys' boots, or packets of notes into their hands.

In fact, the scene could not be more decorous. I was in the weighing-room with other well-known racing men like Fred Myerscough and Joe McGrath, before the big race on Saturday. We saw no attempt at nobbling menaces or blackmail. One after another the jockeys sat in the cane-sided weighing chair, were weighed, and passed, unaccosted, to the Parade Ring.

Rings Only

As each jockey sits in the chair he calls out his number in the race and the nature of his equipment. One of them says: "Number seven, sir, rings only." "Rings only" means a type of bridle that only has rings. We are now speaking in words of one syllable, but it becomes more complicated at once. Another jockey says: "Martingale and breast-coat." I firmly believe, at any rate, that he says "breast-coat." It sounds like that.

The trouble about the weighing-room is that everybody in it knows so much about racing that one dare not ask them questions. Imagine saying to Joe McGrath: "Pardon, sir, but did that jockey in the mauve blouse say 'breast-coat' or 'waistcoat?'"

At any rate, the jockey brings with him to the weighing-chair everything—except the money—that will eventually be put on the horse. His weight is checked by the Stewards, sitting round a bare and battered table.

Getting Dressed

On either side of the weighing-room are the two dressing-rooms, gloomy, dark, little places, littered with clothes, saddles, racing colours, suitcases and odd pairs of boots. The walls are green-painted planks.

There is no evidence of excitement among the crowds of jockeys getting ready for this outsize race. It might be the locker-room at a golf club. There is the usual stuff about "That's my shirt," and "Where do you think you're going with my breeches?" Aubrey Brabazon walks about wearing the inside part of his cap—the brown, pot-like crash helmet—a short white cravat, breeches, boots, and nothing else.

On the bench along the wall another jockey draws on a laddered, but serviceable, pair of silk stockings. Yes, madame, silk stockings. Nothing else will fit inside the racing boot. I cannot remove my eyes from the silk stockings. They look shocking on the jockey's muscular little legs.

Silent Feet

Some of the jockeys, getting behindhand, do not bother to fit their caps over the crash helmet before going out to the weighing chair. They put them on any way, with the peak over one ear. The serious, leathery little faces look strangely comic under the big domed crash helmet and floppy cap.

There is another strange thing about the dressing-room. You think the jockeys are walking about in their bare feet until you look down and see that they are wearing their boots. The boots are so thin that they make no sound on the floor.

Nature Note

Received this from a lady in Drogheda: "Some time ago I set seven Muscovy duck eggs under a hen in a manger. (The Muscovies take five weeks to hatch.) After about two weeks a cat produced two kittens in a corner of the manger close by the hen, and from then on kittens, eggs and hen have shared the same nest. Each day, when the cat went out in search of food, the kittens climbed in under the hen, who appeared not to object, but hatched them until the cat returned. When the ducklings were about to appear the mother cat failed to return to her young, and since then ducklings and kittens have both been reared by the hen. All appear to be on perfectly friendly terms, nestling together under the hen, feeding together, and following the hen about the yard."

All Change

This letter bears out the contention held by this department for some time, that where you have a Muscovy duck you have confusion.

Two Muscovy ducks, living near Rathfarnham, were recently blessed with three Muscovy eggs. A hen, close by, simultaneously laid five of her own. The female Muscovy, rising to make some adjustment to her person, slipped in the wet mud or something, and finished up sitting on the wrong family. There she remained, in the usual Muscovy ignorance, until chickens sprang forth from beneath her. The hen, in the meantime, had taken over the Muscovy's consignment, failing anything else.

Three Muscovy ducklings now follow the hen, while the Muscovy duck is pursued by five White Wyandotte chickens.

The really absurd thing is that the male Muscovy has struck up a friendship with a young turkey, and makes persistent efforts to nurse it.

I'd like to know who introduced Muscovy ducks into this country anyway.

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

THE very popular procedure adopted by the London County Council, the Plymouth City Council and many Government departments in publishing their future plans well in advance to allow the widest possible discussion by interested parties and the public, is being followed by the Corporation of Manchester, which has decided to issue ten thousand copies of the Manchester planning report at 12s. 6d. and ten thousand copies of an abridged or popular edition at 3s. One thousand copies of the dearer edition will be distributed free to local authorities, Government departments and municipal bodies throughout the Commonwealth and the United States. The total cost, including that of a great exhibition of the plans locally, will be £13,625, of which about £6,500 will be recovered in the sale of the books. Manchester, by the way, has just been officially designated a reception area from the flying bomb attacks. It thus presents an interesting paradox; for, during the air raids of 1940 and 1941, sixty thousand Manchester children were evacuated and nearly two thousand are still the guests of outside areas. As they have settled down happily and their education has been well looked after in parts of Lancashire, Cheshire, Derbyshire, Shropshire and Staffordshire, there is no intention of disturbing them, although Manchester is now regarded as "safe."

Conquering Malaria

The fact that during the six weeks between mid-May and the end of the peak period for malaria on the Imphal front, the incidence among Allied troops fell by five-sixths as compared with last year, is an example of the way in which new knowledge and experience are helping to conquer the disease. Precautions include the wearing of trousers all day, the use of anti-mosquito cream after dark, universal use of nets at night, and the taking of one mepacrine tablet a day in the case of men in areas which have not been prepared or drained. But while good discipline in preventive measure plays a big part in the anti-malarial war, it cannot kill the enemy. This is the rôle of the anti-malarial units, which begin their work with powerful sprays filled with pyrethum solution, at 5.30 in the morning, moving swiftly from nooks and crevices where the insects hide.

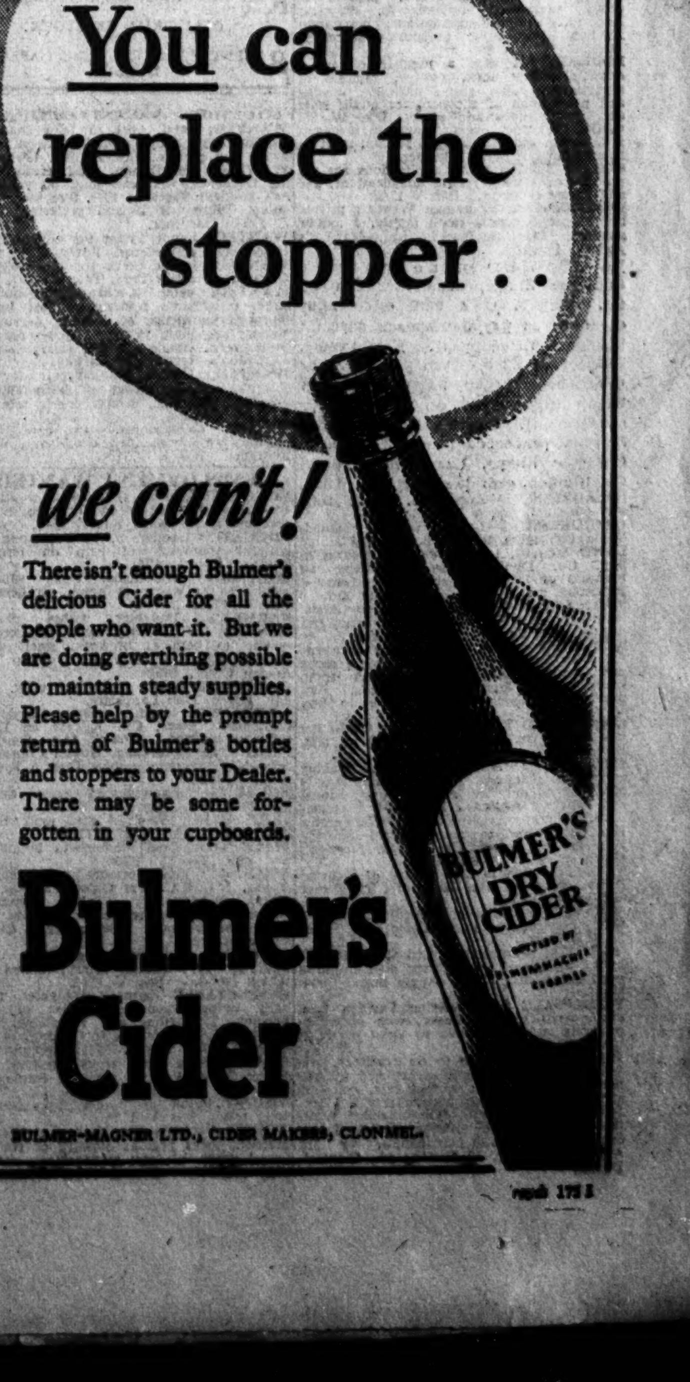

Known in England

Malaria a hundred years ago was, of course, not an uncommon ailment in England. The "agues and the intermittent fevers" of Dick's time were accepted as one of the common risks of daily life. It is still a grave problem in the Southern States of the United States, and occasional cases are still reported from the fen country of East Anglia. Mepacrine—which is now being used with very good results to supply the needs of Allied armies operating in countries stricken with this terrible disease—is almost, if not quite, identical with Atebrin, the wonderful drug produced by Bayer, the famous German chemist, in the twenties of this century, which is preferred by many doctors to quinine. The dosage needed is very much smaller, sometimes only one-fiftieth of the standard quinine dose, and the drug can often be used in cases which will not tolerate quinine at all.

Standing is a greater strain than walking. The foot has to bear the whole weight of the body without pause. The arches ache. The ankles swell—and all minor foot ailments are aggravated. At Scholl's* we take the strain off your feet—giving expert treatment to callouses, crooked toes and painful heels—and supporting tired arches if need be. You find yourself "standing up to life" well-poised and cheerful.
